

The most institutionally vetted solution on the market.

As digital asset markets mature, benchmarks have become critical infrastructure for ETFs, ETPs, index products, derivatives, structured products, and institutional investment strategies. Market participants require transparent methodologies, trusted pricing inputs, regulatory alignment, and operational resilience to support investable products at scale. Lukka Benchmarks delivers institutional-grade benchmark administration, calculation services, and market intelligence that help firms launch products, manage risk, and build investor confidence.
